

Overview

The Foreign Policy Association of Harrisburg was organized in 1949 by a group of local educators and civic leaders as a venue for public discussion of international issues affecting United States foreign policy and America's national and international interests. The Association believes that America's foreign policy is everyone's business and that our lives are directly affected by the role the United States plays in world affairs.

The purpose of the Association is solely educational, to bring information on international issues and policies to the attention of our citizens. The FPA takes no position on the issues presented and discussed.

While aligned with the national Foreign Policy Association, the Harrisburg FPA is independently governed by a board of directors from the Harrisburg metropolitan area. The FPA is a non-partisan, non-profit educational association. It is funded by membership fees and donations.

Programs

• Regular Monthly Meetings

Each year, the Association presents a series of seven monthly dinner meetings which feature a speaker selected for their experience or expertise on the selected topic.

The monthly meetings consist of a social hour to meet the speaker at 5:30 PM, dinner at 6:30 PM and the speaker's presentation at 7:30 PM, followed by a question and answer session with the speaker.

The meetings are held at the Radisson Penn-Harris Hotel in Camp Hill, PA. The dinner menus are selected by a committee working with the restaurant and are invariably excellent. The dinner cost is $24.00 per person for members and $27.00 for non-members.

Attendance at the dinner is by reservation. The presentation and question and answer session are open to the public free of charge.

In addition, the Association sponsors:

- Annual International Fellows Reception in conjunction with the Army War College and the local international community to honor the foreign officers who are studying for a year at the U.S. Army War College.
- Annual visit to Washington D.C. briefing at a foreign embassy and U.S. State Department.
- 2nd Annual President's Speakers Series notable subject matter speakers will deliver insight based on experience and knowledge
- The 'Great Decisions' program study groups that meet to discuss key issues from the Great Decisions study book.
- Monthly newsletter and announcements of coming events.

Why Join?

Over the years, the Association has earned recognition for bringing to the community experienced and qualified speakers, such as U.S. and foreign ambassadors; statesmen; journalists; senior international business, economic and military leaders; and scholars from around the globe.

The meetings offer members an opportunity to interact with the guest speaker and with others from our area who share an interest in America's foreign policy challenges.
